Let's start yarning about gambling.

An illustration at the top of the page shows a pair of feet on the left and two hands on the right, all in a dark blue color. The background is a warm orange with faint, repeating patterns of a gambler's wheel and a hand holding a card.

Gambling is a risky business. There is a line and we may not know we have crossed it.

When gambling becomes a problem it can affect our spirit, our identity, our family and even our health.

By reconnecting and starting the yarning circle with our family and the community, we can stay on the right side of the line.
