It's time we had

Sometimes it is hard to know what gambling is.
In a game, when you're watching sport or at the club with mates—it is all around us.

We may not know we have crossed the line
until we start losing sight of our culture, our mob and our future.

But it doesn't have to be that way.
