Accessible	Accessible healthcare is characterised by the ability of people to obtain appropriate healthcare at the right place and right time, irrespective of income, cultural background or geography.
Activity-based funding	A management tool with the potential to enhance public accountability and drive technical efficiency in the delivery of health services by: • capturing consistent and detailed information on hospital sector activity and accurately measuring the costs of delivery • creating an explicit relationship between funds allocated and services provided • strengthening management's focus on outputs, outcomes and quality • encouraging clinicians and managers to identify variations in costs and practices so they can be managed at a local level in the context of improving efficiency and effectiveness • providing mechanisms to reward good practice and support quality initiatives.
Acute	Having a short and relatively severe course.
Acute care	Care in which the clinical intent or treatment goal is to: • manage labour (obstetric) • cure illness or provide definitive treatment of injury • perform surgery • relieve symptoms of illness or injury (excluding palliative care) • reduce severity of an illness or injury • protect against exacerbation and/or complication of an illness and/or injury that could threaten life or normal function • perform diagnostic or therapeutic procedures.
Acute hospital	Is generally a recognised hospital that provides acute care and excludes dental and psychiatric hospitals.
Admission	The process whereby a hospital accepts responsibility for a patient's care and/or treatment. It follows a clinical decision, based on specified criteria, that a patient requires same-day or overnight care or treatment, which can occur in hospital and/or in the patient's home (for hospital-in-the-home patients).

Emergencies	Immediately, imminently or potentially life-threatening conditions.
Emergency department waiting time to service delivery	Time elapsed for each patient from presentation to the emergency department to start of services by the treating clinician. It is calculated by deducting the date and time the patient presents from the date and time of the service event.

Appendix 9.4: Variable Life Adjusted Displays—measuring clinical outcomes

Queensland Health is determined to deliver patient care that is the safest and of the highest quality as possible. To assist in that endeavour, Queensland Health monitors 30 clinical indicators on a monthly basis using a statistical technique called Variable Life Adjusted Display (VLAD). VLADs provide staff with an easily understood pictorial view of patient outcomes over time to identify extraordinary trends and occurrences at or near the time they occur so they can be investigated promptly and timely action instigated.

The Queensland Health approach to VLADs is world leading and incorporates the following principles:

- line management responsibility for patient safety and quality
- clinician involvement
- a just and open approach to managing adverse events
- responsibilities articulated for all levels of Queensland Health
- measurement of outcomes and performance
- transparency and accountability
- emphasis on the need for Queensland Health to improve its performance in patient safety, quality and effectiveness.

The indicators monitored during 2010–2011 are divided into four categories:

- surgical
- medical
- obstetrics and gynaecology
- mental health.

The following table presents all upper (favourable) and lower (unfavourable) level 3 flags notified to hospitals in April 2010–March 2011 and the corresponding review results associated with the lower level 3 flags. Each review result was reviewed external to the hospital by the Queensland Health Patient Safety and Quality

Executive Committee VLAD Sub-committee to ensure reviews were thorough and action plans addressed findings.

Use of VLADs enables a robust system to monitor the quality of health outcomes and a collaborative approach with districts to address issues where flagged; notify areas of risk; and implement and augment solutions for sustainable improvement.

For more information on the VLAD methodology, please refer to the VLAD website: www.health.qld.gov.au/quality/vlad.asp
